

67,200-663
2001-0587

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0025] A manufacturing process moves work in progress among various processing stations in a transportable container. The container has associated therewith an electronic data card that can store information about the work in progress. The data card further has a microcomputer and a set of instructions for performing conditional checks upon the stored information. The operator is alerted to critical information in accordance with the conditional checks by way of light emitting diodes.

20030101 16:00:00